COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

APOLLO BUILDING, N.W. Cor. Fifth and Walnut Sts. CINCINNATI, OHIO.

A CARD.

OVER a year ago our attention as Educators and Business Men was directed to the depressed condition of Commercial Education in this city, and, after mature deliberation, we resolved upon opening what is now known as the "Queen City Commercial College." We commenced business in a building on Vine street, devoting a large part of our time to the enterprise, and employed first a Teacher of Penmanship, then an Assistant in the Bookkeeping Department; and then, anticipating a rapid increase of patronage, we leased our present rooms in Apollo Building, which has been fitted up for Professor John Gundry before his demise. Our business continuing on the increase, we have been obliged to engage additional professional assistance, besides devoting our exclusive time to its interests. Some conception of our success may be formed when we state that we have, during the present month (September, 1875) admitted 97 students, the majority of whom have purchased full scholarships.

We need not inform the public that this unprecedented success is not the result of noise and bluster.

Our business has been done quietly, and with no reference to our competitors. Very many of our friends are not yet aware of our having resumed the business, and others patronize Nelson's College under the delusion that it continues under the management of Prof. Richard Nelson, and perhaps his former associates, Henry A. Faber and R. H. Langdale, whereas the same is now owned by Horatio Nelson, a nephew of Professor Richard Nelson, and one H. P. Kelley.

These, our young competitors, in an article entitled "To Proprietors of Commercial Colleges," in their "College Journal," of 50,000 circulation, stigmatize certain teachers in the profession, who had been connected with Nelson's College, as "inexperienced upstarts," "useless teachers," etc., "who are endeavoring to appropriate the reputation of Nelson's College," etc.

That we are the teachers referred to is too evident to need argument. But we may state that while the writers and publishers lacked the courage to attack us openly, they have mailed to our address a copy of their Journal, with the offensive articles conspicuously marked, and their bill-distributor has made it his business to stand at the entrance of our college, while he industriously delivered his papers to passengers and strangers visiting our college, and to our own students and teachers.

Let us consider the justice of these charges and insinuations: We have not at any time appropriated the reputation of Nelson's College, though we had a perfect right to do so, at least in part; and when we made reference to our old associate and former preceptor, Professor Richard Nelson, we were careful to state that he had retired from the profession.

In 1863, Henry A. Faber was engaged in Nelson's College as a teacher. In 1864 he was promoted to the Principalship of the Business Department. In 1866 he purchased an interest in the business from Professor R. Nelson. The position as Principal he held till 1868, when declining health admonished him to retire. He was thus six years a teacher in the institution, and that, too, during the years of its greatest prosperity and activity, when prominent merchants and professional gentlemen, including distinguished teachers, were not ashamed to be considered its students.

As to R. H. Langdale: Leaving Farmers' College in 1866, he entered Nelson's College as a student, and, during the same year, held a responsible position in the College, but, preferring mercantile pursuits, he afterward took charge of a set of books of a firm in the hat business, and subsequently was engaged as book-keeper and financier for the firm of Geo. Demick & Brother, which for nine years he represented on "Change." Like his present associate, he also purchased an interest in, and was then, four years ago, Principal of Nelson's College, when Horatio Nelson was one of his assistants, and H. P. Kelley a student.

Subsequent to his connection with Nelson's College, Henry A. Faber engaged in the practice of law, when it was his province to settle the affairs of five business houses in the capacity of assignee, one of that of receiver and two as referee. Until lately he was also the President of the Aurora Insurance Company of this city.

R. H. Langdale, more recently, to prepare himself for higher professional duties, engaged in the study of law, graduated at the Cincinnati Law School, and was admitted to the bar.

Yet these are the "inexperienced upstarts" referred to in the College Journal. Let us inquire who their associates are.

Horatio Nelson entered his uncle's college in 1864 to obtain an English and mercantile education in the departments in which Henry A. Faber was then Principal. For a person of his limited attainments, he made commendable progress, though we do not know that he ever completed a course of study.

H. P. Kelley had been a student of the college a month or two prior to his contracting for its purchase. We are not aware that either has ever been connected with a business house, or acted as a clerk or book-keeper; and yet these are the "MEN OF RECOGNIZED ABILITY," who call us "upstarts," and claim that we have appropriated their reputation.

Their reputation? If they had a reputation why did they not make use of it instead of that of Nelson's Business College, a part of which was our property as co-workers with Prof. Richard Nelson in building it up? Simply because they had none. And we might further ask, why did they not publish Prof. Nelson's withdrawal from the college, before he had discredited them?

We will let the public judge as to who are the "inexperienced upstarts," "useless teachers," etc.

Nelson & Kelley say that these "upstarts" are "boistering themselves up." They did try to boister themselves up by testimonials, but failed to accomplish their object, is their reputation set them at naught.

A Review of the Disasters and Prospects in the Business World—Cuban Rumors and News—Tweedery—Shooting Affray.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—H. Hoffman & Co., dry goods, No. 336 Broadway, suspended to-day; liabilities about $200,000. Dun, Barlow & Co.'s mercantile agency has issued a statement of business failures thus far in 1875. Total failures in the United States for the past nine months, 5,334. Total liabilities, $131,173,633. The greatest number have occurred within the last three months, involving liabilities estimated at $54,323,337.

The failures in New York State, except New York City, during the past nine months, were 476; liabilities, $474,857. The failures in New York City, 546; liabilities, $1,036,650. California, 166; liabilities, $312,411. Connecticut, 141; liabilities, $23,383,509. Georgia, 123; liabilities, $4,313,430. Illinois, 277; liabilities, $6,013,370. Indiana, 236; liabilities, $3,654,912. Iowa, 131; liabilities, $1,014,805. Kentucky, 106; liabilities, $2,583,330. Maryland, 55; liabilities, $9,334,662. Massachusetts, 172; liabilities, $15,623,321. Michigan, 172; liabilities, $2,406,552. Minnesota, 109; liabilities, $1,563,200. Mississippi, 145; liabilities, $2,725,973. New Jersey, 77; liabilities, $1,894,103. Ohio, 260; liabilities, $4,636,334. Pennsylvania, 419; liabilities, $13,019,833. South Carolina, 118; liabilities, $2,533,335. Texas, 193; liabilities, $2,406,552. Virginia, and West Virginia, 97; liabilities, $1,480,570. Wisconsin, 198; liabilities, $1,523,027. The remaining States show a much smaller proportion of failures.

In Canada, for the same period, there have been 1,567; liabilities, $1,911,544. A comparison of failures in the United States for the past three months with the same period in former years gives the following result: 1872, failures 3,050, liabilities $80,000,000; 1873, failures 3,887, liabilities $171,000,000; 1874, failures 4,371, liabilities $116,000,000; 1875, failures 5,334, liabilities one hundred and thirty millions, showing an excess over the average of the first nine months during the past four years of 1,174 failures and an excess of $3,730,000 liabilities. In New York City failures during the past nine months exceeded the same period last year by sixty-three, with an excess of $9,000,000 in liabilities. The result in numerous sections of the country is an important indication of the times, and if not accounted for may create apprehensions as to the future. Those failures were largely the result of previous misfortunes, with which the trade of the past three months is not chargeable. Many of them are the effects of the panic of 1873.

The increase in liabilities is traceable to an attempt on the part of some of the heaviest houses to float themselves along by increasing their obligations, in the hopes of a revival of business. A review of the whole situation shows many indications of returning health and vigor. A fair trade has been done at almost all jobbing centers in anticipation of the movement in crops, and the results of the autumn trade are encouraging.

In the main there are certainly improved aspects compared with the same period last year. The return to prosperity is slow but sure. The proportion of failures in Canada has been 30 per cent, while in the United States it has only been 8 per cent, 1,000.

An affray occurred at the Fifth Avenue Hotel late last night between Thos. H. Ferris and Edward Haggerty, two well-known local politicians, resulting in Haggerty being shot and seriously wounded. The altercation grew out of a discussion concerning the candidacy of Morrissey and Fox in the Fourth Senatorial district.

The quarrel commenced in a bar-room and the men clinched as they started to fight. Haggerty drew a revolver and shot Ferris in the groin and fed across the river.

A Washington special to the Herald says in connection with the rumor freely circulated lately that Grant intends a vigorous policy with reference to the belligerent rights of the South, the quiet and formidable combination of so many men of war on the North Atlantic Station, is exciting keen comment, and it is believed an important movement in Cuban affairs will take place at an early day after the assembling of Congress.

Dispatches from Santa Clara, Cuba, say Rafael Martinez has been court-martialed and shot at point-blank.

It was rumored in the city yesterday that arrangements were being made for a settlement of the civil suit against William M. Tweed, by the restitution of a large sum of money. Tweed's counsel, however, say they knew nothing of any such arrangement.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—Geo. B. Goodman, the well-known real estate dealer, died of heart disease in his office at noon to-day. There is no truth in the rumor that Park-street Church has called Rev. NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The following gentlemen, who were among the delegates from Cincinnati, accompanying the first Centennial train to Philadelphia, arrived in this city from Philadelphia last evening: W. M. Holloway, Esq.,

Balloon Ascension by Free Agent Thomas NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 23.—Mr. David Thomas, P. T. Barnum's press agent, made a balloon ascension from the Green in this city this afternoon. The air ship used was the Barnum No. 4.

The air was almost quiet when the ascension was made, with the weather vane marking the wind southeast. The balloon ascended gracefully, and slowly moved toward the North.

When about one thousand feet high it veered to the east and passed out of sight in a northeasterly direction. This is Mr. Thomas' fourth ascension alone. The crowd that viewed the ascension was immense, and Mr. Thomas, who is a native of this city, was greeted as he rose with cheer upon cheer. He intends to extend his voyage as long as possible, if he is not carried over the sound.

ABOUT $200 worth of mathematical instruments were taken from the store of L. M. Prince, No. 143 West Fourth street last night by burglars, who made an entry into the vestibule at the front entrance, and went for the show case, but could not get into the store. The door which they tried to force was completely bolted by the "Humpy," but it was their efforts. They emptied the case, however, and loaded themselves down so with plunder that they threw away in a hallway next door about $200 worth which they could not get away with.

TO-NIGHT the "Orphans' Promenade Concert" closes. Exposition Hall last evening was crowded with a fine audience, who were pleasantly entertained by the songs and tableaux of the orphans, all acquiring themselves admirably, for which they received well-earned applause. The recitation by Mr. Daniel P. Dean of "Brother Sam's Letter" was a splendid feature of the occasion. To-night there is to be a grand concert drill by the Knights of St. James. Also the march of the Mulligan Guards, Messrs. Flennsey and Clem Kindly volunteering their services, assisted by a detachment of Knights. The Thomas-Harmonic Concert.

Pike's Hall was filled by a splendid audience last evening, the occasion being the first of the Thomas Orchestra concerts. The audience was a very appreciative one, though not demonstrative. The orchestral part of the programme, the overture, "Abencerrage," by Cherubini, was rendered in a manner such as only the Thomas Orchestra could render it, and was received by the audience in a quiet and appreciative manner. Mme. Madeline Schiller acquitted herself, in the piano solo, in a magnificent manner, showing conclusively that she is a thorough artist. But the great success of the evening was Miss Emma Crauch's scenes from Orpheus, with a mixed chorus from the Harmonic Society and orchestral accompaniments. Her rich mezzo soprano voice, ringing with every word, especially in the aria "O care senza Euridice," that she was twice recalled to acknowledge its reception. The concert this afternoon will embrace the following programme:

Symphony No. 5—Lecore—Raff. Grand Polonaise—Chopin. Rhapsodie Hongroise—Liszt. Romance—Beethoven. Selections—Flying Dutchman—Wagner.

L. B. THOMAS & Co., 175 Main street, have on hand a stock of carpets, oil cloths, etc., that for beauty, elegance, durability and moderate price cannot be equaled in this city. A BEAUTIFUL DINNER CASTER, best triple plate, with elegant chased band and fine cut bottles, is now sold for eight dollars. There is no longer an apology for distasteful tables with an awkward center piece. In fact, all articles of table ware in the line of triple silver plate, such as tea sets, coffee urns, cake baskets, butter dishes, etc., are now sold at the most wonderfully reasonable prices. The modeling and ornamentation of this class of goods, as manufactured by American manufacturers, approaches very nearly to the dignity of a fine art. Housekeepers should congratulate themselves on living in an age yielding them such facilities for appointing their tables in elegant style at so modest an outlay. That these advantages are appreciated, we are led to believe, in the throngs that the salesrooms of Duane & Co. and adjoining the large sales being made of this class of goods.
